WASHINGTON, D. C., APRIL 14, 1881. THE OLD BACHELOR IN WINTER. BY O. RESTOR. Gracious, how cold!

The winds are out, And frisk about ; And on the wold High drifts the snow, The streams are froze, and I am old. In single bliss

I sit and poke My fire and smoke. No lips to kiss; No arms to twine This neck of mine. No smiles to miss. So sad o' nights,

So lonely days Through life's dark ways, And o'er its heights, I walk alone-My pathway strewn With lost delights.

M. B. LATIMER, the well-known aucfloncer, denies that he is the author or had anything to do with furnishing a poem in the "Poet's Corner" of The REPUBLICAN yesterday, entitled, "Sweet Miss May, by Mark Latimer."

A Spelling Contest.

A Detroiter who had occasion this winter to visit Gratiot County was invited to a spelling school in a distant school-house, and he reached the place to find it crowded and deep interest apparent among the audience. The spelling soon began, and in a little time only six or eight contestants were left. One of these was a giant named William Jones, and it was evident that he had come there to conquer. When he spelled "icalousy" with a "g" they tried to make him sit down, but he rapped on the desk with his big fist and replied:

"I don't know nuthin' 'bout Webster or any other foreigner, and I don't care. Ive allus been used to spellin' it 'gealousy,' and I ain't goin' to knock off to please a few woodchucks." As he would not sit down he was allowed to go on spelling, even after he had missed several more words. At last only the Detrolter and big William had the floor, and while the last was struggling with the word "sympathy," a window near the former opened softly and a man whispered: "Say, stranger, can you spell 'chromo?" "Of course I can."

"Well, it's goin' to floor Bill, and don't you forget it, and the teacher sent me around here to say to you that you'd better climb out and skip before the climax comes."

"What climax ?" "Why, the one we had a month ago. That 'ere Bill went down on the word 'euphony,' and the chap from Iowa who was left standing had to be carried home in a blanket. When Bill gets through with 'sympathy' the next word will be 'chromo,' and you'd better start it off 'k-r-o,' or be ready to jump through this winder and make for the woods, for that 'ere Bill is bound to out-spell this deestrick, if he has to lick every human bein'

The Detroiter had a good eye for harmony in chromes, and he wisely permitted big Bill to be the last one left standing.-Free Press.
